Dan Belcher

Dan Belcher is a co-founder at mabl, a venture-backed startup that is using AI to make end-to-end testing easier. Prior to mabl, Dan was the Lead Product Manager for monitoring and logging at Google, which he joined through its acquisition of Stackdriver, a company which he also-co-founded. He spent his early career working on infrastructure and ops tools at Microsoft and VMware. Dan combines his technical experience with a broad and continuously-updated view of the market to guide his product development teams. In his free time, Dan enjoys golf and concocting new cocktails for his friends and family to enjoy.
